Tall Ships, Sagres and Hermione, in Boston Harbor

by Matt Conti

Tall Ships in Boston Harbor with the Portuguese Navy's Sagres and France's Hermione docked at Fan Pier and Rows Wharf, respectively.

Arriving at Fan Pier in the Seaport, the Portuguese Navy's Tall Ship Sagres arrived as part of Sail Boston 2015. The Sagres is one of the world's most iconic Tall Ships, known by her white sails emblazoned with red crosses. Built in 1937, the 294-foot-long, 3-masted barque was originally a training vessel for the German Navy before she was taken as a war reparation by the United States after World War II and given to Brazil in 1948. Acquired by Portugal in 1962, the Sagres serves as a naval training vessel. She has visited more than 60 countries and circumnavigated the globe three times, most recently in 2010 during a nearly yearlong voyage of approximately 35,000 miles. At night, the Sagres is a beacon with its bright lights.

The Hermione is an 18th century frigate that carried the Marquis de Lafayette and news of French support for America during the American Revolution to Boston in 1780 — a key turning point in the war against the British. The Friends of Hermione-Lafayette in America, Inc. (FOHLA), a non-profit educational and cultural organization, is sponsoring its historic return to Boston as part of her U.S. summer tour up the eastern seaboard.

State of the American Worker

Americans who have jobs now number 62.8 percent, the lowest labor participation rate since 1977 and President Jimmy Carter. Remember him; he said Americans were suffering from a malaise. Malaise was spelled C-A-R-T-E-R.

Don't Judge Castros by Their Past

Diplomatic relations between Cuba and the United States is now official with embassies opened up recently in both countries. Fifty years of separation have ended, and Cuba didn't have to do anything to get President Obama to make it happen. Obama, speaking to critics of the move, said that America needs to move beyond the past and leave it there. However, when it comes to the Confederacy and racism, he claims that white America is born with a racist DNA. What happened to leaving the past in the past?

Quote to Note

"I mean what I say and I say what I mean, and that's what America needs right now."

The statue of Madonna delle Grazie was presented on Sunday afternoon at the annual procession in Boston's North End. The society was founded in Boston in 1903 from San Sossio Baronia Avellino. Featuring the North End Marching Band and the Northeast Italian Band, devotees to the Madonna started at St. Leonard's Church at the corner of Hanover and Prince Streets and made their way through the neighborhood streets with many stops along the way. Madonna delle Grazie (Our Lady of Graces) is a devotion to the Virgin Mary in the Roman Catholic Church.

BIRD AND BULL

Continuing our coverage of Hercules and his celebrated labors, we recall, briefly, that this demigod was the offspring of one of Zeus' par-amours. Later, in a period of madness brought on by the unrelenting hostility of Zeus' wife, Hercules killed his own wife and children. When he regained his senses, he was horrified at what he had done and sought advice from the Oracle at Delphi. He was advised to go to Tiryns and perform whatever ten labors King Eurystheus would demand of him. We also learned that Hercules would, in fact, perform twelve labors because two of them, the second and fifth, were disqualified.

For his sixth labor, Hercules was required to return to Arcadia to drive off the Stymphalian birds (inhabitants of Lake Stymphalus). These birds were man-eating monsters with claws, wings, and beaks of brass. They were also equipped with feathers that could shoot out like arrows. As an aid in performing this sixth labor, Hercules borrowed a pair of castanets from the goddess Minerva. The castanets were of brass and originally made by Vulcan, the smith of the gods. The castanets were clashed from a mountainside near Lake Stymphalus. When the frightened birds flew up, Hercules shot great numbers of them and scared off the others.

The first six labors of Hercules were performed in the Peloponesus. Now the envious king began to assign tasks in distant territories, making them more dangerous. For the seventh labor, it was demanded that Hercules bring back the Cretan Bull.

The legend of King Minos and the Cretan Bull remains unknown to most people today. The story is now related briefly because of its importance to the subject at hand—"The Labors of Hercules."

Minos, the son of Zeus and Europa, aspired to the throne of Crete. He prayed that a beautiful bull would come out of the sea, vowing to sacrifice it to Poseidon (god of the sea) to help in achieving his ambition. The bull appeared as requested and shortly thereafter Minos became king of Crete. The bull was such a beautiful animal that Minos treacherously concealed it and substituted another in its place. Greatly angered, Poseidon caused the bull to become ferocious while, at the same time, he made Minos' wife conceive a great passion for the animal. An ancient inventor named Daedalus (known as the cunning artificer) helped the queen to gratify her passion and this union brought forth the "Minotaur" or "Minotaurus" a monster with the head of a bull and the body of a human. We now understand the origin of the name Minotaurus (Minos the king and Taurus the bull). We also now understand why the beast was kept in a special labyrinth below the palace of King Minos.

Some writers have hinted that the capture of the bull was facilitated by King Minos who, because of the embarrassing episode in creating the Minotaurus, wanted to be rid of it. The bull was captured without incident by Hercules and brought back to the Peloponnesus where it was sacrificed at Athens.

Be Prepared When Disaster Strikes

Assemble Free Disaster Preparedness Kits with Points of Light, the Allstate Foundation and Boston Cares at the Revere Beach Sand Sculpting Festival — Friday, July 24

After surviving a winter of record-breaking snowfall, subzero temperatures, ice storms, and numerous heat and power outages, Massachusetts residents are being called to take action and prepare for the potential damaging effects of future storms well before they hit. On Friday, July 24th, join the Allstate Foundation, Points of Light and Boston Cares to learn how to protect your family should disaster strike. Attendees at the Revere Beach Sand Sculpting Festival are invited to stop by the disaster preparedness booth to assemble a free disaster kit with items proven to help keep them safe. The event at the Revere festival is part of a 14-city, nation-wide disaster preparedness tour and education campaign.

Research shows that 85 percent of Americans are unprepared for disaster and nearly half lack emergency supplies for use in the event of a disaster. Poor disaster preparation leads to a needless loss of property and lives. Together with the Allstate Foundation, Points of Light, the world's largest organization dedicated to volunteer service, is raising public awareness about the importance of disaster preparedness and is providing materials to help keep residents safe at home.

Be educated and prepared before the next storm hits. Find the disaster preparedness booth between Beach Street and Chestnut Avenue in Revere on July 24th to learn more about emergency preparedness and assemble a free disaster prep kit with items such as a hand-crank flashlight, whistle, emergency blanket, first aid kit, and more. Volunteers from Allstate and Boston Cares will be onsite to answer questions and teach residents about staying safe in the event of a disaster.

The disaster preparedness booth will be open from 10:00 am to 1:00 pm at Revere Beach during the annual Beach Sand Sculpting Festival. The event is free and open to people of all ages. To learn more about disaster preparedness, visit www.goodandready.org.

L'Anno Bello: A Year in Italian Folklore

All About Birthdays

by Ally Di Censo Symynkywicz

My birthday is quickly approaching this Monday, July 20th, and it has gotten me thinking about these unique celebrations in general. Birthdays fall under the category of rites of passage, or milestones, and, as a result, cultures around the world celebrate birthdays with special customs and traditions. While we think of birthdays as great opportunities for parties and food, in ancient times people viewed birthdays as dangerous occasions because of their liminality, being poised between one year and the next. As such, birthday parties included—and continue to include—loud noise and noisemakers to scare off the evil spirit believed to be lurking around during this period. Many vestiges of these ancient fetes remain. From birthday cakes to picking up the check, here are special birthday traditions from around the world.

Our first stop, of course, is Italy, one of the original homes of the birthday cake. Though scholars are still unsure about the origin of the birthday cake, many theorize that these sweet treats originated in the Mediterranean world. Ancient Greeks baked round cakes to honor Artemis, the goddess of the moon and the hunt, and then illuminated the cakes with candles in order to better resemble the moon. The ancient Romans, on the other hand, made sweet honey cakes to serve at birthdays and weddings — where they were traditionally broken over the bride's head for good luck! However, the custom of placing candles on a birthday cake comes from Germany, where a large candle was often situated in the center of the cake to symbolize life. Modern Italian birthday traditions resemble those of America. People gather for a birthday cake, food, a party and gifts. There are some differences, however. Beware of people pulling on your earlobes if you celebrate your birthday in Italy — they will pull the corresponding number of years you are turning. Also, if a group of friends go out to dinner, it is the friend celebrating the birthday who is expected to pay for the meal. Finally, since saints are an important part of Italian society, children are often named for the saint whose day coincides with their birthday. Or they may celebrate on a smaller scale during the day belonging to the saint who shares their name. My father, for example, was born on August 16th, which is Saint Roch's day, and so my grandmother appropriately named him Rocco!

Foods are an important part of birthday celebrations around the world. Australian children can expect to be served the charmingly-named Fairy Bread, or buttered bread covered with multicolored sprinkles, during their parties. Children in Brazil receive marzipan candies shaped like fruit. Candies feature in Mexican birthdays as well, where they are concealed in a piñata which is later broken open by blindfolded guests. The Dutch, on the other hand, like to feast on pancakes sprinkled with powdered sugar. Many birthday foods also reflect the theme of good luck for the upcoming year. A person celebrating their birthday in China will eat long noodles, which symbolize a long life. Russians have birthday pies instead of birthday cakes, and a message bestowing good fortune upon the birthday person is inscribed on the crust. Finally, Canadian children can expect a more immediate form of luck at birthday parties. Whoever finds a coin hidden in his or her slice of birthday cake will have the first turn in all of the feast's games! In addition to food, sometimes the specific age a person is turning forms the focal point of birthday celebrations. Usually these special birthdays honor the entrance into adulthood. The United States has "sweet sixteen" celebrations, while Latin American countries hold elaborate quinceañeras when a girl turns fifteen. These parties' rival weddings and the girl shares a special dance with her father. In the Jewish tradition, bar or bat mitzvah rituals on a teenager's thirteenth birthday welcome the boy or girl as adult members of the community.

Birthdays are a special time to honor both human joy and resilience. They indicate that we have once again made it through a year filled with myriad human emotions, from happiness to disillusionment, challenges and triumphs. They remind us that we have the strength to endure. Like holidays, birthdays are an indication that the year cycles on, and that is a good reason to celebrate. Whether we celebrate with cakes or dinners, when we honor a birthday, we honor the passage of time, but also all that is timeless — love and family and good food. That is the true meaning of the candles winking and blinking cheerfully on a birthday cake, a symbol that, like us, has come a long way.

Ally Di Censo Symynkywicz is a Graduate Student in History at the University of Massachusetts Boston. Any comments and suggestions about Italian holidays and folklore at adicenso89@gmail.com.

Squantum Celebrates America's Birthday

Quincy Police Department Color Guard

It was Christmas in July as Santa rode in this year's parade with his elf.

Quincy Mayor Tom Koch with Sal Giarratani.

As usual, the Squantum section of Quincy, "the City of Presidents," once again celebrated the Fourth of July with its annual Squantum July 4th Parade. The streets of the neighborhood were lined with residents waving flags and cheering the marchers and enjoying all the traditional floats that made this annual celebration something special to all. With the world living in uncertain times and our nation mired in acts of violence, it is nice to sit back and remember all the good this nation of ours stands for in 2015. It is easy to get depressed when reading the news or watching television, but this nation survives because its strength is in its people, which makes America forever special. The sun was shining and the weather quite pleasant, and when the last band played and marched off into Squantum history, folks gathered across the neighborhood to celebrate America with each other as we should always do and surely will.

On June 22nd, the East Boston Athletic Board held its 65th Annual Awards Banquet at Spinelli's Function Hall with a packed room of young athletes, their families, friends and community leaders. There are many traditions in the neighborhood that have deep roots, and this one has grown larger and larger over the decades. The Athletic Board was founded back in 1950 by a small band of community activists to help neighborhood kids reach their full potential and to inspire them to continue on with their education as they grow into adulthood.

This year, the awardees included Kevin Sinatra, Outstanding High School Male Athlete; twin sisters Laura and Lorena Escolero, Co-Outstanding Female Athletes and Mark Lanzilli, Outstanding Sandlot Amateur Athlete.

Saint Frederick

by Bennett Molinari and Richard Molinari

Frederick was born around 780 in Friesland (or Frisia) and was a grandson of the Frisian King Radbod.

At a young age, he was taught at Utrecht by the clergy, including Bishop Ricfried. After completing his studies, he was ordained a priest and put in charge of converting the remaining non-believers in the northern areas of the diocese and also in areas outside of the diocese. It is known that he preached at Walcheren and together with St. Odulfus in Stavoren and its surroundings.

After the death of Ricfried in 815/816, Frederick was chosen as Bishop of Utrecht. He was known for his piety and erudition. He was praised for his knowledge and understanding during the synod of Mainz in 829. According to tradition, St. Frederick became involved in the squabbles between the sons of the emperor, Louis the Debonair, and their father and step-mother. During these disturbances, the party of the young princes charged the Empress Judith with numerous immoralities. Whatever may have been the truth of these stories, St. Frederick is said to have admonished her about them with the effect of drawing upon himself the fury and resentment of the empress.

Frederick, as Bishop, at once began to establish order everywhere, and sent St. Odulf and other laborers into the northern parts to dispel the paganism which still existed there.

He got himself disliked by the inhabitants of Walcheren, who were barbarous and opposed to the Gospel teachings. When he sent priests to the northern part of his diocese, took this most dangerous and difficult part chiefly to himself.

History records that it was on July 18, 838, after St. Frederick had celebrated Mass, that he was stabbed by two assassins. He died in a few minutes, reciting Psalm 144, "I will praise the Lord in the land of the living." The eleventh century author of his life says that these assassins were employed by the Empress Judith, who could not pardon the liberty he had taken to reprove her sins, and was incited to take action by her husband. It is also believed that the inhabitants of Walcheren, who were hostile to Christianity, sent them as a response to Frederick's preaching there.

Shortly after his death, Frederick was canonized. His feast day is July 18th; he is the patron saint of the deaf.

What's in Your Beach/Pool Bag? Summer 2015

Ciao bella,

Well it's that TIME of the year again, gals!! Finally, the fun weather is here! Every summer I put this list together to help you with your summer essentials when you are away from home at the water. First, invest in a sun hat! Some already have an SPF of 30/50 in the material! So let's get it together from the most important stuff down!

First of all, Sun Protection-30 SPF or higher for faces only. Then a 30 SPF or higher for body, preferably "water resistant." You still must re-apply! Follow directions thoroughly! Don't forget your lip protection! Mine is a "pink" zinc ointment — very colorful.

Sunglasses — can't choose this year from my vintage collection! I did find stylish "sun" bifocals for reading!

A bottle of water to hydrate through the day. Put a bottle of water in your freezer the night before so it will stay cold for your sipping pleasure!

A nice big fluffy towel — nothing like it to lie on/dry off!

A cover-up when you feel enough SUN or that chill you get when you leave the water. I just ordered two fashionable turbans for hair protection when I'm hanging in the pool. And since you never know who you will meet in the water, a comb/brush to refresh the coif. Goody has put out a "Spin Pin" to whip up a quick chignon or just to keep your hair up!

An energy bar for a quick pick-me-up snack or some nuts and fruit.

A fav magazine or book when you're tired of "people watching."

I always like to carry a spritz bottle with rose water for a quick cool-off! Evian also works well!

Hand sanitizer always comes in handy. The towelettes are so convenient.

This is what's in my bag — hope it's in yours! Enjoy these beautiful summer days!

Buona giornata and God bless the United States of America!

Simple TIMES...

by Girard A. Plante

You probably never heard their names. Never met them. Yet their collective contributions to the Commonwealth's citizens with disabilities over the past four decades have proven immeasurable. Fate intervened and brought two guys together years later to fight wars of a different type from those heady years of the Vietnam War.

In 1971, Sen. Tom Kennedy (D-Brockton) broke his neck at age 19 from a fall washing windows. At the time, he was studying to be a Catholic priest. After returning home from rehab in 1973, Tom was appointed ombudsman in his hometown of Brockton. Ten years later, he was elected to the House of Representatives, where he served until 2008 when his constituents elected him to the Senate — the seat he held upon his death on June 29th from "complications related to his treatment for cancer," a family member said. He was 63.

Gov. Charlie Baker knew Tom for years. "Kennedy's perseverance in overcoming his disabilities served as an inspiration for all those who knew him and for many more who are also working to surmount their own challenges in life."

Gioacchino "Jack" Grieco passed away May 25th, 13 days after I last spoke to him at a tribute sponsored by the Boston Center for Independent Living. Jack died from cancer. He was 55. At the start of high school in 1974, Jack suffered a high-level spinal cord injury at a construction site in South Boston.

Jack's life the past 41 years was filled with enormous accomplishments, not so much for himself, but for people struggling to adapt to spinal cord injury. He bored through government bureaucracies to guide others with various disabilities, desperately navigating moribund public policy programs that required extensive changes.

At his tribute that sun-splashed May evening, Jack's humor shone through while recalling "weird ways" to successfully hire personal care attendants to work for guys and gals eager to move into apartments to start a life of independence. "We held secret meetings after BCIL's doors closed and drank beer while strategizing the best ways to convince MassHealth officials to fund the PCA Program," he said.

Laughter echoed through the room on Winter Street overlooking Downtown Crossing. Filled with longtime friends using power chairs, along with the able-bodied, sharing fond anecdotes spiced with Jack's "abilities to carry a 12-pack of beer up Berkeley Street" to BCIL's headquarters in the late '70s.

Both Tom and Jack grew into active advocates, giving boundless energy and truckloads of time to enhance the lives of people long oppressed by a mean-spirited, indifferent system. They set out on a curvy path towards liberating people who hated languishing in dreadful state-run institutions, nursing homes, and oppressive living situations.

Tom and Jack never chose to live the complexities of spinal cord injury. The full-blown fate of their accidents chose them to be the next people with disabilities in our larger community. Through years of activism, they crossed paths at State House public hearings and meet-ups in Kennedy's office to discuss legislation friendly to the unique needs of people with disabilities. Understanding each other never required explanation, as their injuries taught them similar lessons.

Living with spinal cord injury exacts a toll on the physical structure and the person's psyche. Most people living without disabilities cannot comprehend the daily realities of struggling to not merely survive, but thrive. They assume a life of doing and acting is over for the guy or gal using a power chair for mobility. The opposite was true in the full, fun, active and successful lives of Tom and Jack.

These grand guys knew difficult days. Frustration builds after continuously instructing people to do fundamental tasks, such as combing hair, tying a necktie, lacing a shoe that able-bodied folks take for granted. Yet in constructing a life of normalcy, guys and gals in situations similar to Tom and Jack's know best to adapt to unforeseen challenges.

Charles Darwin aptly describes the results Tom and Jack attained by plowing through the rough journey of life, blasting away preconceived notions that our society tosses in the paths of people with disabilities: "It is not the strongest of the species that survives, nor the most intelligent that survives. It is the one that is most adaptable to change."

Mrs. Murphy . . . As I See It

Another robbery happened last week at a busy liquor store in Central Square. Rumor has it, the thieves; wearing full masks went in the back door during the night and stole cartons of cigarettes. Heard the place had security cameras and alarms! What every business needs these days is an attack dog patrolling the premises at night. ... Donald Trump stood by his comments on Illegal’s saying the troublesome ones need to be deported! Trump refused to cow-tail to MSNBC after they fired him. Trump is to be commended and certainly doesn’t need MSNBC’s money. MSNBC also cancelled Trump’s beauty pageant that was underway in New Orleans, and found another station! Macy’s Stores joined in MSNBC by pulling Trump merchandise off their shelves. The so-intended bad publicity may in reality help Donald! Skeptics unsure of his ability to be president are now giving him a second look! American politics have gone so far to the left with “El President’s” leadership;

Americans are desperate for strong leadership! Could Trump be the “Trump Card” this country is longing for??? ... Heard Lou Silvestro of Channel Fish bid at the YMCA Annual Breakfast to have lunch at Santarpio’s famous pizza restaurant with Red Sox President and CEO Larry Lucchino was sheer delight. Silvestro also dined with Frank Santarpio, owner of Santarpio’s and former State Senator Bob Travaglini, along with Lucchino. The money Silvestro paid went to the East Boston YMCA and its programs for children and families ... Some East Boston residents are afraid all the new housing developments could hurt their hometown, especially if a lot of subsidized housing becomes available to outsiders. Cheer up Eastie there’s also lots of housing developing in progress in Chelsea and Revere! We’ll soon find out if it’s good or bad for our cities! ... It’s always a summer of fun if you live in Eastie for the kids. ZUMIX provides music and entertainment! There’s Eastie Pride Day, the Columbian Festival, The Beach Party at Constitution Beach, the Public Library always has something going and so much more ... Every year people are warned of the dangers of fireworks and fail to listen. This year’s big Fourth of July tragedy in the Northeast (Maine) occurred when a party reveler’s head exploded after he put fireworks on his head and accidentally lit them. A pro-athlete lost his index finger while lighting a firework. So I rest my case! ... Do you often walk out of restaurants due to earsplitting noise? Practically all new restaurants debut with punishing noise levels, because owners think it’s more fun to have a lively eatery. Well, they’re wrong! It’s no fun to go home hoarse after screaming all night to be heard, the liveliness turns into hearing loss. Besides owners thinking quiet represents old and dead, restaurants feel noise discourages table camping and enables more profit driving table turns. It’s an unwelcome trend for customers and welcome for owners. caging-caging-caging, I can hear that cash register going!!! Till next time! ...

USA Wins FIFA Women’s World Cup

by Lexie Kaufman

On July 5th, 2015, the USA Women’s Soccer Team defeated Japan at BC Place in Vancouver, Canada, with a final score of 5-2. This is the first win for the women’s soccer team since 1999. The USA is now the first three-time FIFA Women’s World Cup winner. Four years ago, the USA went up against Japan only to face a devastating defeat. This time, the 23 members walked into this game with high confidence levels and assurance of winning. Within the first 16 minutes of the game, Carli Lloyd netted the fastest hat trick in history; along with Lauren Holiday scoring a goal, the U.S. held a 4-0 lead over Japan. USA’s scoreless streak was ended at 540 minutes, seconds away from a World Cup record, when Japan scored in the 28th minute. In the second half, Julie Johnston’s defensive tactics sent the ball into the USA’s net, giving Japan their second goal. Just a couple minutes later, though, Tobin Heath scored a final goal giving the USA their 5-2 finish. After the game, Carli Lloyd and goalkeeper Hope Solo were awarded Golden Ball and Golden Glove for best player and goalkeeper. For the first time ever, a historic ticker-tape parade and city hall ceremony was held on July 10, 2015, in New York City for the women’s outstanding win. Fans cheered in excitement, holding up signs reading “She believed she could, so she did” and “Thank

The Ogunquit Playhouse 2015 Season is Underway
Victor Victoria Draws Great Reviews

Next Up: Struthers and Harper in Nice Work if You Can Get it

Sally Struthers

Make no mistake about it, The Ogunquit Playhouse is no summer stock theater. It is a full-fledged regional playhouse that consistently serves up some of the finest theatre in New England. I was a bit late getting up to Maine to catch Victor Victoria, but I was not disappointed; it deserved the great press it got. It closes July 18th, so it will be a bit late to get there by the time you read this; but if you can, do so. Don't fret though, because what is coming up next is a real treat.

Sally Struthers will be returning to Ogunquit in the role of temperance enforcer Duchess Estonia in the Gershwin song-filled Nice Work if You Can Get it. And that's not all; she will be joined by Valerie Harper, who will be playing the wealthy and stylish Millicent Winter.

Both Struthers and Harper are fondly remembered by millions for their roles in 1970s television. Sally Struthers as Gloria in the groundbreaking series All in the Family, and Valerie Harper as Rhoda Morgenstern, first on the Mary Tyler Moore Show, and later in her own series, Rhoda. Rhoda was the woman every man in America wanted to date.

While both are best known by the general public for their TV work, they are also tremendous stage actors. I got to see Ms. Struthers in last year's Playhouse production of The Witches of Eastwick, and I can tell you this lady is a pro.

A number of years ago, I saw Valerie Harper in Boston playing the lead role in The Tale of the Allergist's Wife, a performance I have not forgotten even though it was back in 2002. In 2007, Ms. Harper portrayed Israeli

ANNUAL SUMMER POTLUCK GATHERING
This past Monday, the Jeffries Point Neighborhood Association gathered for its annual Summer Neighborhood Potluck Dinner where more than 80 neighbors celebrated their community together. L-R: Jimmy and Patti Sartori (seated) and City Councilor Ayanna Pressley and Karen Maddalena.

Boston Renee just let me know that the Jeffries Point Neighborhood Association's Annual Summer Potluck gathering was a beautiful time with a big turnout of neighborhood folk. The evening was a wonderful summer evening and folks were having such a great time that nobody wanted to go home.
The event took place at the Golden Stairs at Junior Lombardi Terrace Park with that great view of the Boston Skyline from our side of Boston Harbor.
THOMAS RIDES INTO EDVILLE
My little nephew Drew loves Thomas the Train and watches it all the time. He even has Thomas the Train toys to play with. Soon, Thomas and all his friends will be opening up shop in their first home in North America, right here at Edaville down in Carver. It will be an 11 acre, $25 million, 11 ride theme park for Thomas the Tank Engine Land. Doors open August 15th.

CANDELA MAGAZINE'S MISSED OPPORTUNITY
About a year ago, I met the young Latina publisher of Candela Magazine, "The Hispanic lifestyle in your hand." It is obviously geared toward the Latino millenium generation and it looks quite classic. However, none of it is in English and too much of it looks like eye candy, which only points out Latino stereotypes about sexuality. The audience is probably largely male as I too found myself "reading" all the photos.
This glossy mag has so much more potential than just eye candy and, hopefully, it will get there soon.
QUOTE TO NOTE
"Boston 2024 — they used to call it the 'walkable Olympics.' Just walk away, Renee."

— Howie Carr
DOMENIC D'AMBROSIO, RIP
I was shocked to hear that Domenic had passed away recently. I was also shocked to see that he was 64 years old. He had so much energy and seemed tireless. I met him back in 1983 during Ray Flynn's mayoral campaign. He loved doing politics and seemed to have so much passion. Over the years, we were always bumping into each other. The last time I saw him, we were talking about the stadium and minor league baseball team for Malden. When he talked, he talked with passion and a wide smile took over his entire face. It is hard to believe he is gone. He was one of the good guys.

LAWRENCE THINKING ABOUT LICENSES FOR ILLEGALS
When I think of Lawrence, the last thing I think of is giving illegal residents of that city legal driver's licenses. However, the city officials up there are now in support of a bill on Beacon Hill which would allow illegals in Massachusetts the right to apply for driver's licenses. According to a city councilor up in that community, giving illegals the legal ability to drive on our roads would be good for public safety. I kid you not.
Kudos to Bristol County Sheriff Tom Hodgson, who said, he was shocked to learn of the council resolution. "It defies logic," he says, and he's right. I am not anti-immigrant. I, like the sheriff, am pro-law. Of course, State Sen. Patricia Jehlen (D-Somerville) supports the idea. People like her seem to think immigration law violators are just victims, not law breakers. What else is new for the Peoples Republic of Massachusetts mindset? Why stop at driving, why not let illegals vote, too. Good country, America is turning into — NOT.

ready to go on in Nice Work.
It is very special that Artistic Director Brad Kenney has brought these two fine actors together on a stage in New England, and it is a rare chance to see such talent performing together locally.
Nice Work if You Can Get it is a new musical written by Tony Award winner Joe DiPietro and is based on material by Guy Bolton and P.G. Wodehouse. In 2012, it was nominated for 10 Tony Awards, winning two. It is a singing and dancing musical featuring the music of George and Ira Gershwin, including the title song as well as "Let's Call the Whole Things Off," "Someone to Watch Over Me," and many others. Sounds like a great combination of music and talent to me.

Nice Work if You Can Get it will run at the Ogunquit Playhouse in Ogunquit, ME from July 22nd to August 15th. For more information go to www.ogunquitplayhouse.com or call 207-646-5511.

Ray Barron's 11 O'CLOCK NEWS

Monkeying around! Japanese women are swooning over an unlikely new heartthrob: a gorilla called Shabani. The handsome silverback, who lives at a zoo in the City of Nagoya, recently became an online sensation when Japanese women started trading pictures of the great ape tagged with the word “Ikeman,” or “hot young hunk.” Nagoya’s zoo has since seen a boom in visitors, with women flocking from across the country to get a glimpse of Shabani’s smoldering eyes, chiseled brow, and rippling muscles. “He often rests his chin on his hands and looks intently at you,” said a zoo spokesman.

Huh? About 20 percent of women who married in recent years chose to keep their birth name, according to an analysis of wedding data. Another 10 percent chose either to hyphenate their name or to legally change it while continuing to use their made name professionally.

Atención amigo! The U.S. now has the second-highest number of Spanish speakers in the world, according to a new study. There are nearly 53 million Spanish speakers in this country, putting it ahead of Colombia (48 million) and Spain (46 million) and second only to Mexico (121 million).

A total of 21 countries now have legalized same-sex marriage nationwide, including Argentina, Denmark, Ireland, Spain, and Sweden. Congratulations.

According to Giuseppina, cosce storte, “One way a girl can stop a man from making love to her is to marry him.”

Proprio Stronzo says, “If a man is too lazy to think for himself, he should get married!”

The great Steven Sebestyen says, “Most men think they’re marrying a cook; most women think they’re marrying a banker.”

Steven’s beautiful and brainy wife, Theresa, says, “The honeymoon is over when the bride begins to suspect that she was never anything to him but a tax deduction.”

Good news! Americans drink far less today than our predecessors did. In 1830, the average American drank the equivalent of 7.1 gallons of pure alcohol per year. In 2013, by comparison, the average American drank the equivalent of 2.34 gallons of pure alcohol.

The Bloody Mary is known as the “Queen of Drinks” and was invented in Harry’s Bar in Paris in the 1930s. If you put a raisin in a glass of champagne, it will keep floating to the top and sinking to the bottom. And remember, wine will spoil if exposed to light, hence the tinted bottles. Be aware, lab tests can detect trace of alcohol in urine six to twelve hours after a person has stopped drinking.

Poll watch: 59% of Americans support the Supreme Court ruling that legalized same-sex marriage in all 50 states. 63% support the court’s ruling upholding Obama care subsidies for people in states without insurance exchanges.

The great musicologist Albert Natale wants you to know that every time Beethoven sat down to write music, he poured ice water over his head. It was Mozart who wrote the nursery rhyme “Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star” at the age of five. Mozart is buried in an unmarked pauper’s grave. The opera singer Enrico Caruso practiced in the bath, while accompanied by a pianist in a nearby room. Reminder! “Happy Birthday to You” is the most often sung song in America. Enrico Caruso and Roy Orbison were the only tenors in the twentieth century capable of hitting the note E over high C. One more time! The bestselling Christmas single of all time is Bing Crosby’s “White Christmas.” The first CD pressed in the United States was Bruce Springsteen’s Born in the USA.

Some useless information: John D. Rockefeller was the first billionaire in the United States. The largest employer in the world is the India railway system, employing more than a million people. Howard Hughes once made half a billion dollars in one day. In 1966, he received a bank draft for $546,549.171 in return for his 75 percent holdings in TWA. Best Cure for Cramps: Queen Victoria’s physician prescribed Cannabis (marijuana) for the relief of her menstrual pains. To think, fifty-six million people go to Major League baseball games each year. And never forget, Christianity has more than a billion followers. Islam is next in representation, with half this number. Proprio Stronzo says thank God he is an atheist.

Mother Superior Frances Fitzgerald says, “How can you be an atheist if you say, thank God!”

Touted by many as a kind of wonder drug, medical marijuana may be all but useless, according to new research from Yale University. Previous studies suggested the substance was not only an effective treatment for depression, anxiety, and glaucoma, but could also relieve post chemotherapy nausea, boost appetite among HIV patients, help insomniacs sleep, and ease symptoms of Tourette’s Syndrome. But after analyzing numerous studies involving almost 6,500 people, the Yale researchers found no reliable evidence that marijuana could help treat any of these conditions, says the Los Angeles times.

Reminder! A meteorologist is one who has more scientific aids than you have in guessing wrong about the weather.

Wow! The most unusual traffic violation: In Jackson, Mississippi, in 1972, police flagged down a car that was zigzagging randomly through traffic and discovered that the driver was blind. He was being directed by a friend in the seat next to him who said he was too drunk to drive himself.

Which localities’ residents are making the most money? First is San Francisco, followed by West Palm Beach-Boca Raton, FL. So where does Boston rank? On the list of 25, Boston-Worcester-Lawrence-Lowell rank 22. Based on 1993 income, the localities average is $24,861.

Italian-American history: It was in 1938 when Enrico Fermi, world renowned physicist, accepted his Nobel Prize in Stockholm. The scientist came to the United States instead of returning to Italy. In 1942, Enrico Fermi ushered in the Atomic Age with the first controlled chain reaction of nuclear energy. Fermi’s success was announced in code, “The Italian navigator has landed in the New World.”

In 1952, singer Frank Sinatra’s career was at an all-time low. The Hoboken crooner was better known as “Ava Gardner’s husband.” A year later, Sinatra landed an Oscar for his supporting role in the movie, From Here to Eternity. From 1952 on, “The Chairman of the Board” made 31 movies (several all-time box office hits) and cut a few hundred records. In 1998, at the age of 80, Frank Sinatra left us after a heart attack at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, Los Angeles. Born on this date, July 17th: James Cagney, 1899: Art Linkletter, 1912, Phyllis Diller, 1917, Donald Sutherland, 1934. And on this date, July 17th, in 1959, we lost US jazz singer Billie Holiday.

For you lottery lovers, it was in 1815, President Thomas Jefferson authorized a lottery, which was formulated by the Italian, Giovanni Vannini and operated in several states.

Knowing how much your spouse earns might seem like a “no-brainer,” but a surprising number of people apparently have no idea, said Jean Chatzky in Fortune.com. A study by Fidelity Investments found that nearly 4 in 10 couples can’t answer the question; another 1 in 10 were off by $25,000 or more. Couples didn’t fare much better on other personal-finance topics.

Ah, money! Some are late for church services because they have to change a tire; others, because they have to change a dollar. And Bella Culo of Chestnut Hill says, “The one book that always has a sad ending is a checkbook.”

SPINACH AND FAGIOLI (BEANS)

|---------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1 can red kidney beans or | 2 garlic cloves chopped        |
| 1 can cannellini beans    | (optional)                     |
| (white beans)             | 4 tablespoons olive, canola,   |
| 1 pound spinach (fresh or | or vegetable oil               |
| frozen)                   | 1 can chicken broth (optional) |
| 1 medium onion chopped    | Salt                           |

Fresh spinach: Clean and wash spinach. Set aside.

Frozen spinach: Remove wrapper from package, place spinach aside in a bowl.

In a saucepan, heat oil over medium heat. Add chopped onion and simmer until onion is lightly browned. Add chopped garlic and stir for a few seconds (optional). Garlic should not brown. Then add can of beans of choice, stir, and cover. Cook over low heat for a few minutes. If sticking, add a little water or some chicken broth. Stir and add washed fresh or frozen spinach. (Frozen spinach will require a little more water or chicken broth to defrost and cook with the beans). Let this simmer slowly, stirring occasionally until spinach is cooked. Add more water or chicken broth if needed.

Serve with fresh garlic bread and/or boiled rice of choice. Serves two.

OPTIONAL: In place of spinach, use your favorite leafy vegetable of choice like escarole, chicory, mustard greens, broccoli rabbi or kale.

Note: My maternal grandmother selected her dry white beans from the various bean bins in the local grocery store. At home she washed the beans and started the long process of cooking them on her stove. The kitchen filled with the aroma of the simmering beans as Nonna faithfully checked and stirred the bean pot. In a separate saucepan she later used her cooked beans to prepare what she called “la minestra” (her beans and greens meal). During the Depression, mothers extended this recipe by adding more beans to the saucepan when needed. In most families, this often was a “dunk and eat lots of bread” meal because no meat was to be served that evening.

We are fortunate today to have various canned beans, which can limit the preparation time in preparing this meal.

you for letting us dream.”

This also marked the first time a women’s sports team received a ride down the famed Canyon of Heroes. Mayor Bill de Blasio awarded the team keys to the city at City Hall. That same night, superstar Taylor Swift brought the winning team on stage yelling to the audience “How does it feel to have them home?”

It is clear that the excitement of this win is a huge deal for many Americans across the country, inspiring scores of young women to reach for the stars. The next step: the team is hoping this win will lead to equal pay for the women’s team.

Nanna & Babbononno

by John Christoforo

A Nostalgic Remembrance

Someone asked me to run a story I had written years ago about the funny side of an episode in Babbononno's inability to Americanize, so here goes:

It was Christmas Eve afternoon, and Babbononno got out of work a little early to do his last minute shopping. This was not the type of Christmas shopping where you buy presents for members of the family. It was the shopping for things that were traditional for the dinner table on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Most everything needed for the two days had been purchased by Nanna and my mother. But, there were things that Babbononno wanted that Nanna refused to touch. Among them, eels.

Nanna was deathly afraid of snakes and, to her, eels were snakes. She wouldn't kill them; she wouldn't clean them; she wouldn't eat them. Eels skeeved her out. She called them serpente bagnati (wet snakes). So, if Babbononno wanted the eels for Christmas Eve, he would have to buy them and then kill, clean and cook them himself.

Babbononno got a ride to the North End that afternoon and stopped at Giuffre's Fish Market, which was on the corner of Cross and Salem Streets. He bought some quahogs, little necks, oysters, razor clams and about a half dozen eels. The eels were in a galvanized wash tub sitting on a wooden box in front of the store's entrance. He had one of the sales people trap six of them and place them in a shopping bag with the shell food he had selected. At his request, the man double-bagged the eels because they were wet and could possibly soak through one bag. (This happened before plastic bags were invented.) Once he left Giuffre's, he headed for a bar that was on the corner of Hanover and Prince Streets. It was cold standing outside picking eels for his table, and a glass of wine or a shot of cognac might warm him up for the journey home.

When he left the bar, he headed for Haymarket Station of the Boston Elevated (Boston El.) Once on the train, he headed to Maverick Station in East Boston. After he arrived at Maverick, he went outside to wait for the Meridian Street trolley. He boarded the trolley that would take him to the corner of Eutaw Street, found a seat and put his bag of eels down on the inside of his left leg, next to a heater. By the time the trolley arrived at Central Square, the eels were squirming around from the heat. Unfortunately, the double-bagging didn't work. The eels soaked right through both bags and broke through, winding up on the floor of the trolley.

Many people on the trolley weren't Italian and knew nothing about eels and eating seven types of fish for Christmas Eve. What they saw was several snakes wiggling around their feet. Women began to scream. Several jumped on the seats. Even the men were jumping around trying to avoid the sea creatures.

Seeing a commotion, the conductor stopped the trolley and walked back to where the passengers were in a panic. After spotting the rapidly moving eels, he began to yell at Babbononno who had no idea what the man was saying. Babbononno tried to explain in fractured English what had happened, and the two men wound up yelling at each other with neither knowing what the other was saying. As the two of them were going at it, a couple of brave souls tried to capture the eels with no luck. Babbononno pulled out a pocket knife, went down on his hands and knees and tried to spear his wandering dinner ingredients. It took quite a while, but old dead-eye Babbononno speared all six of them and threw each back into the ripped paper shopping bags. A neighbor saw what was going on and offered my grandfather the use of her black oilcloth shopping bag. He accepted and quickly threw his ripped bags into the replacement. It worked. He had recaptured his dinner.

As a result of the problem and the argument with the conductor, Babbononno was asked to leave the trolley. I'm not sure, but he may have even been escorted to the open door. Word has it that every aspect of Italian and American profanity came into play as my grandfather left the trolley. Knowing my grandfather when his temper was at its worst, I think gestures with either one of his middle fingers in a vertical position or a fast folding of one arm into the other may have come into play. When the conductor yelled that he was going to call the police, Babbononno walked away from the trolley and began walking up the Meridian Street Hill.

He didn't get too far because Bell's Caf  was right off Central Square on the same side of Meridian Street as the Seville Theater. He entered the bar and decided to calm his nerves. He met a couple of acquaintances who also were calming their nerves and joined them in a sample of liquid refreshment. By the time he left, he was feeling no pain.

When he left, he continued on his merry way up the hill toward Eutaw Street. Arriving at number 70, he entered through the cellar door and wound up in the kitchen where Nanna and my mother were preparing the traditional Christmas Eve dinner. Nanna smelled her husband and let him have a barrage of Italian curses, but broke into laughter when Babbononno began to explain the events of the afternoon. When he opened the shopping bag to reveal his purchases, my grandmother yelled and ran out of the kitchen.

Undaunted, Babbononno dumped the six eels into the kitchen sink, and called for my father. When he appeared, my grandfather enlisted his help in spearing each eel, killing them, dissecting them, skinning the segments and then frying them in oil and garlic. When Nanna and my mother finally returned to the kitchen, the eels were in the frying pan and Dad was shucking the shell food that shared space with the eels in the original bags.

Within an hour, Christmas Eve dinner was just about ready to be placed on the dinner table. Beginning with antipasto, then spaghetti aglio olio, the seven fishes were served to the members of the family. When Babbononno brought out the dish with the cooked eels, the final product looked nothing like their original appearance. Nanna was still squeamish and refused to eat even one piece. It seems that none of my uncles, aunts or my parents had any desire to indulge, so Babbononno had six cooked eels all to himself for Christmas Eve. Of course, they were washed down with a few glasses of Zi'Antonio's best homemade wine, and all was well. I hope repeating this story satisfies those of you who asked for it again. GOD BLESS AMERICA

Scott Walker Announces for President

Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker has officially thrown his hat into the ring for president earlier this week and he is a favorite among Tea Party Republicans for the way he has stood up to Big Labor and the liberal media. Many call him a new Ronald Reagan, a plain speaking guy. He is going to be in the top tier almost immediately.

Quote to Note

"If you see rising water or water on the road ahead of you, turn around, don't drown."

— Annise Parker, Mayor of Houston

What to Do With a Euro?

Recently, while selling sausages at Quincy Market, an Irish guy put a euro into my tip jar. What do I do with this coin? It is useless to me. Thank God, we aren't in the European Union. Anyhow, I decided to donate my euro to Greece. It needs it more than me.

Unions Fighting Big Business

I have been a union member in AFSCME for more than 40 years now and rarely when it comes to politics do I ever have anything in common. The latest fundraising letter I received from AFSCME started off, "They're out there; the right-wing extremists and activist justices who will not be satisfied until they've taken us out of the game ... they want to turn back the clocks and only help the super-rich ... these groups are funded and run by anti-worker, anti-retiree billionaires, like the Koch brothers and their fat cat friends."

These pitches for money are so old school. If I had kept a fundraising letter from 1975, it would have sounded like the latest letter I got in the mail. Fat cats, billionaires, Wall Street, blah, blah, blah.

Of course they never talk about their own versions of the Koch brothers, namely George Soros or whatever his name is. Big Unions and Big Business, I don't like either or those senseless fundraising methods that haven't worked for most of my lifetime.

There really is a JV Team

Good God, America

Immigration and Customs Enforcement in new guidelines will be considering detainees who are transgendering and making decisions about housing, clothing and what pronouns to use. ICE will now allow for placements consistent with gender self-identities.

However, that is not good enough for some transgender advocates who think this population should be immediately released into the countryside since they are at increased risks for sexual assaults. Good God, America. What have we become?

Jobs Creation Looking Good?

According to the latest Obama spin, the Obama White House announced that 223,000 jobs were created in June. However, you need to read the fine print. The labor force declined downward by 432,000 in the same month. To put this into perspective, almost 94 million Americans are NOT working. The labor force participation rate is now 62.6 percent, a 38-year low.

A NEW “HOLY YEAR” ANNOUNCED BY PAPA FRANCESCO: THE “JUBILEE OF MERCY.” As recently announced by Pope Francesco, the Jubilee year will take place on December 8, 2015. It has been defined as the new stage in the Church’s mission to bring the “Gospel of Mercy” to all. The announcement was made the very same day, but two years later, of the elevation of Pope Francis to St. Peter’s throne. The official “BULL,” that solemnly inaugurates the Holy Year, was announced in April (2015), but will get underway in December with the opening of the “Porta Santa” (Holy Gate) in St. Peter’s Basilica, in Rome’s Vatican City. Italy’s Premier Matteo Renzi expressed his approval, personally promising the full cooperation of Italy’s government, primarily strict security to protect tens of thousands of pilgrims expected to attend the many religious functions that will take place. Rome’s Mayor, Dr. Ignazio Marino, stated to the press that the event is a great occasion, not only for the faithful, but also for the non-believers, to reflect upon the significance of life, in a world often sick due to the indifference toward the neighbor, and on the centrality of the spiritual values which characterize our culture and our society. It’s estimated that the event will bring to Rome more than 25 million visitors, from all corners of the world.

THE ECONOMIC TURNAROUND IN ITALY: PAINFULLY SLOW! The economic renaissance has begun, many say, but it appears to move very slowly. Quite a few believe, however, that significant events seem to interfere with a more sustained economic activity that is beginning to give rise to new, real expectations. One has to do with “births.” Over the past five years, deaths have outnumbered births, despite the contribution of the newly arrived immigrants who have already added a lot of births to fill the vacuum that existed. To further complicate matters, women find difficulty getting a job. To produce an additional child could also cause an economic crisis within a family. The difficulties, of course, multiply in the “Mezzogiorno” (south), the well-known poor area of the country. Another factor appears to be the emerging “single woman,” a phenomenon that has given rise to a new, nontraditional “breadwinner,” or a new “head of the household” that has replaced the man. A woman that has been looking for a job to support her family with a fulltime job is quite ready to roll up her sleeves, especially if the man, or the previous breadwinner, has lost his job and has embarked on a new “job” — taking care of the household, especially the children.

Brady Decision Soon?
The verdict by his honor Roger Goodell on Tom Brady’s four-game suspension may be released this week. After meeting with Brady at the NFL headquarters in New York City last month, Goodell now needs to decide if the Well’s report found enough evidence against Brady to uphold the four-game suspension.

Revis & Browner Offensive Contributors?
Recently ESPN.com released an interesting read regarding the effect that losing Corners Darrelle Revis and Brandon Browner will have on the 2015 Patriots. According to chief Patriots writer and ESPN NFL analyst Mike Reiss, the effect may be felt on the offensive side of the ball as much as on the defense. Wide Receiver Brandon LaFell is quoted as saying that practices against that duo last season prepared the Patriots offense down the stretch of the regular season and playoffs. “You have to go out there against those guys and play to another level every day in practice. When it came to game time, you practiced against Revis and Browner. If you are successful against those two, you can pretty much get open on anybody else.”

ways clear, but that was one of the gifts of Woodrow Wilson, the president who found resistance in his own country when he campaigned for America’s participation in the League of Nations. It was one more time he failed at convincing his alleged supporters, and a stroke prevented him from fighting harder. But hindsight has now served the Wilson legacy well and the president who was dismissed in Paris and, to a lesser extent, in his own country when he introduced his ideology for better global relations. But his ideal is more attractive than ever in the world we live in today. He was a deeply flawed politician in many respects and behind the times in others. But the contradictions about Woodrow Wilson are what make him so enigmatic. One thing is certain, when he was right about something, his foresight was unique.

Did Rose Gamble as Active Player?

By now we all know why Pete Rose was banned from baseball for life. He got caught and was punished for gambling while managing the Cincinnati Reds baseball team where he was a legend, some even say, in his own mind. He is the only guy to get over 4,000 hits and the only way he gets into the Hall of Fame is the price of a ticket.

This year's All-Star game is in Cincinnati and baseball has decided to let him be a part of the mid-summer's festivities. However, after that decision was made, ESPN obtained records kept in a notebook showing he bet on Reds' games in his last season as an active player.

He was banned from baseball back in 1989 after MLB officials concluded he bet on the Reds to win from 1985-87 while he was a player and manager. Rose denied such allegations before coming clean in a 2004 autobiography.

Rose is a hard guy to like because of his attitude as a player and after leaving baseball. I think it is fine to make him a part of the All-Star game, but that's it.

Martinez was Simply the Best

Pedro Martinez will be inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame on July 26th, and two days later he will be inducted into the Red Sox Hall of Fame, getting his #45 retired by the Sox. From 1998-2004, he finished in the top four of the Cy Young voting in six of his seven seasons in Boston.

From 1999-2003, he was 82-21 with a 2.10 ERA. He struck out 313 batters in 1999, a team all-time record. Overall, he was 219-100 with a 2.93 ERA and 3,154 strikeouts in an 18-year career.

First Odin Lloyd Scholarship Awarded

The former teammates of Odin Lloyd, the semi-pro football player murdered by Aaron Hernandez, awarded a scholarship to a high school student athlete in Lloyd's memory a few weeks back. His Boston Bandits held an exhibition game to raise funds for a scholarship for students at John D. O'Bryant High School where Lloyd attended. The game was played at the football field of Boston English in Jamaica Plain.

The Bandits played the Eastern Massachusetts Seminoles, the last team Lloyd played against.

July 6th in Baseball History

On this day back in 1929, the Cardinals scored 10 runs in both the first and fifth innings, beating the Phillies 28-6. The Cards had 28 hits and set the NL record with their 28 runs scored.

Happy Birthday to Jake "The Raging Bull" LaMotta Oldest Living Ex Champ Turns 94

On July 10th, Jake LaMotta celebrated his 94th birthday. The oldest living former champion is still going strong and making public appearances. The Raging Bull was the first man to defeat the great Sugar Ray Robinson, and the two would go on to meet for a total of five bouts, culminating in Jake losing his title to Ray in what became known as the St. Valentine's Day Massacre. Many will remember the scene in the movie Raging Bull where Robert De Niro, playing Jake, is still standing as the referee stops the bout. He is helpless on

After losing the title to Robinson, Jake went on to compete as a light-heavyweight, but his career was on the downswing. He was, stopped by local great Irish, Bob Murphy, and lost a decision to another Boston fighter, Norman Hayes, at the Boston Garden.

Jake was knocked down only once in his career and that was in being stopped by Danny Nardico not long before hanging up his gloves.

LaMotta went on to own a nightclub and do stand-up comedy. He also had parts in

HOOPS and HOCKEY in the HUB

by Richard Preiss

ROLSTON BACK IN BAY STATE — Arizona may seem quite a distance from Boston, but those miles evaporated recently with the announcement that former Boston area college coach Ron Rolston has been named to lead the Springfield Falcons for the 2015-2016 American Hockey League season.

It will mark a return to active action at the rink for the 48-year-old hockey lifer, who spent last season as a professional scout for the Phoenix Coyotes organization. Springfield is the top minor league affiliate of the Coyotes.

Although Rolston was briefly an NHL head coach with the Buffalo Sabres, he's best remembered in the Boston area as having served as an assistant coach at Harvard University from 1999-2002, followed by a stint at Boston College from 2002-2004 under Jerry York. That was a renewal of a team effort, since he had also worked with York at Clarkson University from 1996-1999.

In addition, the Fenton, Michigan native worked under another top college coach (Jeff Jackson) at Lake Superior State in Michigan from 1990-1995. While he was there, the Lakers won four consecutive Central College Hockey Association titles and two NCAA National Championships in 2002 and 2004, including one with goalie Blaine Lacher, who later played for the Bruins. Jackson is now the head coach at the University of Notre Dame — a member of the Hockey East Conference.

And if you are looking for another Bruins connection, there's an easy one. Rolston is the older brother of Brian Rolston, who was coached by Ron at Lake State. In fact, it was Brian who wrote a storybook conclusion to the Lakers' run to the 1992 NCAA Championship when he scored the game winning goal in the title tilt as a freshman and was named the Frozen Four's Most Outstanding Player. Three years later he won the Stanley Cup as a member of the 1994-1995 New Jersey Devils.

Brian Rolston came to the B's as a part of one of the most remembered trades in the history of the franchise — the one made by then GM Harry Sinden in the late winter of 2000 that saw B's legendary defenseman Ray Bourque sent west to the Colorado Avalanche where he would proceed to win the Stanley Cup in the spring of 2001.

Back in the Hub, Rolston would go on to have some of his most productive years with the B's, including the 2001-2002 season when he scored a then career high 62 points (31-31-62), a total that included nine shorthanded goals. He would play four complete seasons for the B's before being traded to the Minnesota Wild, and later to the Tampa Bay Lightning.

Much later in his career, it was back to the Devils for three seasons, then one with the New York Islanders, plus a final campaign with the Bruins in 2011-2012, thus missing the year the B's won the Stanley Cup. Following the lockout in the NHL during the fall of 2012, he retired from the NHL on April 30, 2013 at the age of 40, ending a 17-year NHL career during which he had played 1,256 regular season games.

TERRIERS SET SCHEDULE — The Boston University men's hockey team, the defending Hockey East and Beanpot champions, as well as the NCAA Frozen Four runner-up, has announced its schedule for the upcoming 2014-2015 season.

BU will play 16 regular season games at Agganis Arena with the home opener coming against Big 10 member Wisconsin on October 17th. The season opens a week earlier, when the Terriers travel to Schenectady, N.Y. to take on Union College.

BU and Providence — the two teams that met at the Garden back on April 12th in the NCAA Championship Game — will have a pair of showdown contests in the early portion of the schedule, one at Providence on November 13th and the second at Agganis on November 14th.

The Terriers will take on local rivals throughout the season, playing a home/away series against Northeastern on November 6th-7th, meeting Harvard in Cambridge on January 7th while taking on archrival Boston College in another two-game set on January 15th-16th. They will also play Northeastern in the first round of the Beanpot on February 1st.

A final highlight of the regular season will be a two-game road trip to Notre Dame on February 26th-27th.

BU Head Coach David Quinn will enter his third season behind the bench, buoyed by having signed a new five-year contract that comes on the heels of a fine 28-8-5 season — a quick rebound from his first campaign as head coach that featured only 10 victories.

"To be honest, David has done exactly what we thought he would do with our men's hockey program," said BU Director of Athletics Drew Marrochello in a press release. "We had lofty expectations when we hired him and he has exceeded those with outstanding leadership both on and off the ice. There's nobody else we would have leading this program."

The top challenge for Quinn this season will be going forward without superstar player Jack Eichel, who recently signed with the Buffalo Sabres, plus replacing goalie Matt O'Connor who graduated after only three years and promptly signed with the Ottawa Senators. O'Connor may be sent to Ottawa's AHL affiliate in Binghamton, N.Y. If he is, he will probably work with former Terrier Steve Sterling, who is an assistant there.
